

Esports Summer Work 2022

Hello, and welcome to, our newest Spitfires! Can't wait to have you all join the team in September. In the meantime, I have put some work together for you to help you prepare for life as an S6C student. Don't panic if you're a little unsure about any of the following tasks, just do your best, be creative as possible and I look forward to sharing your ideas in the new term!

Your FIRST TASK will be to create a glossary of terms to do with the subject of ESPORTS. You should aim for your glossary to include between 20-30 terms suggesting what esports means to YOU. This can be to do with favourite games, genres, esports athletes, skills, strategies and much more! Be creative as possible with your glossaries - make them pretty so I can display them in our amazing Esports Suite!

Your SECOND TASK (and I think you will enjoy this one) is to watch as much Esports as possible (yes, really!). A common misconception with the BTEC Esports course is that it is 'just gaming' and this couldn't be further from the truth. It is important you understand what Esports is and, more importantly, how the industry and events are run. Below I will list some of my favourite Esports tournaments for you to follow:

- Call of Duty League
- VALORANT Champions Tour
- Rocket League Championship Series
- FIFA eWorld Cup

Whilst watching the events you should be on the lookout for; how the events are planned, how they are casted, how they are live streamed for viewers, how the viewers in the stadiums/building experience the events, how do the players know where do be at all times, what is the role of the host and anything else you can pick up on.

The above tasks should be a smooth introduction for you into the world of esports. If you wish to ask any questions then please feel free to contact me on ndavid@s6c.mlp.college.
